[English text unavailable]

Contents

[English text unavailable] 2

[English text unavailable]

COL-203100

"In the light of the blood moon, they rise and stride under the veil of night ..."

"Freely, they live, without fear of death ..."

"For through blood they live forevermore."

Because blood is life.

Blood is life.

The "Danube Dawn."

L-Ladies—gentlemen! Please remain calm ...

A train whose ticket anyone would die to get.

We've received intelligence that there's very likely a dangerous vampire on board.

Your assistance is vital to our investigation.

I'm afraid I can't help you ...

Investigator Semmelweis.

Ask around and you'll get a hundred different stories; none of them real. You're chasing a fairy tale.

What utter rot!

Well, I HAVE heard rumors ...

A vampire ...?

That's right!

Dracula! Dracula!

You haven't a clue ...

as to the true secret aboard this train.

Stir any memories?

Run! Buska, RUN!

As the night fell and the last slivers of light gave in to the darkness, their cries faded ...

and the blood of those sorry passengers trickled, sweet and warm, down the throats of the red-eyed monsters ...

until every last drop had been swallowed up.

We look forward to seeing you again.