Jessica: Sniffs You smell like something else this time.

Sonetto: Pardon? Well, there's no need to come up so close...

The deer sniffs around the visitor and reaches out to search her.

Jessica: Hmm? Is this a present for me?

She watches Sonetto take out a round, red, sweet-smelling fruit from her pocket.

Jessica: That's what I was talking about.

Sonetto: No. This is a teaching aid for today's lesson. We aren't doing anything too difficult, just a simple test of...

Jessica: Thank you! I like this sun.

Sonetto: Wh-What?

Jessica: This, the sun you brought. It smells delicious.

Sonetto: No, Ms Jessica. This is an apple. It's a crop from the Rose family. In the meantime, the Sun is a star...

Jessica: It's red, round and warm. That's what the sun is like.

Sonetto: Warm ... That's probably because I kept it in my pocket.

Jessica: Nice, I have a delicious sun now!

Sonetto: Please don't consume the teaching aid ... sighs

Sonetto: I will be in touch again soon for future lessons.

[English text unavailable]

COL-305604

Sonetto: Ms. Jessica? What are you doing here?

Jessica: I'm trying to make a hole in the ceiling, so I can use some fresh air in the room.

Sonetto: This could be dangerous, please do not act on this idea... Our class will begin soon, please...

Jessica: Hmm? You brought a new friend today.

Sonetto: Yes. Given what has happened in the last two times, I have made some adjustments to my teaching strategy.

Kitten: Meow.

Jessica: Hmm, I've never had a friend like this.

Sonetto: This is a cat. An animal that is safer to touch than those arcane creatures.

Sonetto: And they are ... very adorable... That's one of the reasons why people like to keep them around in the house.

Jessica: It smells like plant. Well, more specifically ... like the grass under the sun.

Sonetto: That's right. I'm surprised you would say that.

Sonetto: It smells more like wheat to me. Do you know what wheat is? It's one of the ingredients to make bread... Of course, cat is no material for bread...

Jessica: I know what bread and friends are. Of course you can't eat a friend, so it's not edible.

Sonetto: I'm very glad that you get to understand this!

Sonetto: Seems like the adjustment I made is an effective one. This is good.

Kitten: Meow, meow ...

Sonetto: It's quite tame, compared to the Carbuncles.

Jessica: No, it's ferocious.

Sonetto: Ferocious?

Kitten: Meow ...

Jessica: It has sharp blades in its paws ...

Kitten: angry

Jessica: And beast's teeth in the mouth.

Sonetto: ...!

Uncomfortable with the sudden petting, the kitten shows its teeth and gives a couple of hisses. Then it jumps on top of a high cupboard like a spring.

Jessica: Look at that amazing jump!

Jessica: Oh, that's impressive! An awesome friend from the human world.

[English text unavailable]

COL-305605

Jessica: This is ... Oh, I know. It's a book.

Sonetto: Yes, this is a book. People praise books to be the ladder of human progress, and through books humans are able to obtain more insights. Our lesson starts from this book today.

Jessica: Are we going to climb a ladder today?

Sonetto: In terms of knowledge and in a spiritual sense, yes. I can tell that you are a very sensitive and perceptive person, Ms. Jessica. All you need is a systematic method to study and some opportunities to engage new things.

Sonetto: I'm confident that you will have more opportunities after you successfully pass the assessment. Don't worry, Timekeeper ... always keeps her words.

Sonetto: Since we are not allowed to go outside, we can learn through books.

Jessica: Why? This book doesn't have many words.

Jessica: I only see a few words between these blocks ... The blocks look just like what Jennifer used to make!

Sonetto: These are drawings, Ms. Jessica. In fact, they are the same kind of creation that Ms. Blonney has been doing.

Sonetto: When we look at them, we are looking at different corners of the world.

Jessica's fingertips gently swipe across the pages.

Jessica: They are beautiful.

Sonetto: You can ... see the beauty of it?

Sonetto: How amazing. To appreciate a drawing usually takes aesthetic knowledge and life experience... I wouldn't have thought you can...

Sonetto: No, never mind... It seems like you're very talented at this.

Jessica: What about those words in the space between the blocks? They don't seem like stories to me.

Sonetto: These are poems. Most people believe that poems and drawings have a lot in common, and that's why they are always presented next to each other.

Jessica: Are they like Jennifer's stories?

Sonetto: Not exactly, but by definition, yes, they all belong to literature.

Sonetto: Drawings evoke feelings, and people project these feelings into words to create poems. This is a form of writing that possesses an immaterial nature and can pass on feelings unreservedly ...

Sonetto: Well, about that... Mr. Zima used to say that I was overthinking it. He said poems aren't as complicated as I thought ...

Jessica: You seem to like them a lot.

Sonetto: Hmm? Me?

Jessica: Yeah. Both your temperature and tone went up when you talked about them.

Sonetto: ...

Jessica: Very funny. Since you like them so much, they must be very interesting!

[English text unavailable]

COL-305606

Sonetto: What is this...?

A piece of paper, slightly wrinkled, is captured in her hand. On that paper writes a strangely rhymed sentence in a kid's handwriting.

Sonetto: Is this ... a poem? Written by you?

Jessica: Yes, it's a present for you, to thank you for bringing me the delicious sun, the boomerang with funny taste, the ferocious new friend ...

Jessica: And spending so much time with me!

Jessica: I hope you enjoy it! I can't make good stuff like Jennifer's works, but I think I know how to write stories like hers.

Jessica: Hmm, as I remember ...

[English text unavailable]

COL-305607

Jessica: Alright, exactly what I want!

Apple is another sun
Sweet and warm
Yet banana is the moon
Resting by a bitter roof

Sonetto: This is ... fantastic! Very impressive for a beginner! I truly appreciate this present of yours.

Sonetto: I will report these improvements to the Foundation. I'm certain that this will look good in your final assessment.

Sonetto: Please keep up with the hard work so that one day we can have you in Timekeeper's crew.

[English text unavailable]

COL-305608

Jessica: Alright, exactly what I want!

Apple is a great ball of fire,
and I know how to throw a moon!

Sonetto: This is ... very inspiring. Thank you for getting me this special present.

Sonetto: What an unusual perspective, and the wording was also very... But I...I'm not sure if you can call it a poe...

Sonetto: Sigh I think we have pushed you too hard.

Sonetto: No. I should have given you enough time to really absorb these new things... No, I must have done something wrong in the teaching... Or maybe I just haven't yet found the beauty of this work...

Sonetto: Hopefully her final result will be ... satisfactory.

[English text unavailable]

Jessica: Jennifer! You're here! Hurray!

Blonney: Hi, Hello! Okay, there's no need to be overexcited... Err, go easy on the hugs...

Jessica: Oh, sorry! I did that again...

Jessica: I thought you were not coming. I know you said you would, but I am still worried.

Blonney: I might strike people as a person who doesn't value credibility, but ... as I have promised you, I will never disappear on you again.

Blonney: I know you are always there waiting for me. Like a puppy at the door. Although it is just an image in my head, knowing that you are waiting for me would make me think about you more often.

Jessica: You thought about me?

Blonney: Of course... Of course I do!

Blonney: Vertin told me you've been sent to some behavior modification school, which made me uneasy for quite a while.

Jessica: Wow... I never thought you'd be worried about me...

Blonney: Ahem. You also heard those horror stories, right? They usually take place in deserted campsites, in the countryside, or in boarding schools—especially modification schools!

Blonney: Strange female teachers, bizarre whimpers in the middle of the night, and ghosts in the toilet...

Jessica: Yes, they are all true!

Blonney: All true? Here?!

Jessica: We indeed have strange female teachers, and ... whimpers in the middle of the night.

Jessica: In the washroom ... sometimes people can hear weird noises.

Jessica: Perhaps it is a ghost, or a serpent, I can't be sure.

Jessica: I may go check it later, so I can tell you what it is!

Blonney: That's awful. I must talk to Vertin and get you out of here. Don't worry. It won't take long.

Jessica: Hmm? But I'm not afraid at all.

Blonney: You aren't afraid?

Jessica: No, 'cause I'm also one of them, and maybe the most badass one!

Blonney: The girl in dismay in the boarding school ... turns out to be another monster?

Blonney: Good. Sounds like an exciting script!

[English text unavailable]

COL-3056100

Squashed Critter: sobs Roar!

Jessica: Oomph ... Just hold on! I'll try harder ...

Jessica: pants

Squashed Critter: Ugh ...

Jessica: I'm so sorry ... I thought I had grown strong enough to pull you off.

Jessica: It seems I need some Mr. Bites, like those biting bugs in the forest! Hmm, but how am I going to find them here?

[English text unavailable]

COL-3056101

Jessica: Oh, I get it!

Jessica: Andy! Andy will be able to bite through the mucus and get you down!

Jessica rummages through her pockets and places a small bug on the chair.

Squashed Critter: Chirr, chirr!!

Jessica: Almost there, Andy!

The mucus snaps, and the squishy critter jumps off, whimpering with delight.

Squashed Critter: Chirr!! Chirr boo-hoo!

Jessica: Great! You're free!

Squashed Critter: Chirr, chirr!!

They cheer and applaud for the long-lost freedom.

[English text unavailable]
COL-3056102

Jessica: I gotta get out of here!

[English text unavailable]

Jessica: Oh right!

With a flick of her hand, her long hair becomes short, and her little hooves turn into shiny leather shoes.

Managing Teacher: Hmm? You are ...

Instructor: Hello. I... Keys, forgot.

Managing Teacher: Instructor, what's going on?

Instructor: ...Lock. Not open.

Managing Teacher: Did you forget your key to the office?

Managing Teacher: I have a spare one with me. Here you are.

Managing Teacher: I remember you once told me you had a throat problem last year when you were teaching in another school. I know you must be working hard to take good care of that difficult student, but please don't forget to take care of yourself.

Instructor: ...Thank.

[English text unavailable]
COL-3056104

Soft and slimy.

Jessica: Ah! I think I stepped on something ...

Jessica: Mmm ... Something is stuck to my hoof. Eww ...

Shaking her hooves, the deer lowers her head.

Jessica: Oops ... I'm sorry. Are you the boy's friend, Andy?

The tiny Shamir worm called "Andy" is squashed flat and no longer moves.

... Then, more "Andys" gather.

Jessica: Ouch ... That hurts!

Jessica: The "Andys" are biting me. Ouch, another bite!

Jessica: That hurts! Stop biting me! Ouch!

[English text unavailable]
COL-3056105

Jessica: Oh. It's ... an Andy!

Jessica: I already have an Andy. Even though it likes to bite ... I'm still its friend!

Jessica: I know how to make friends, but ... Andy is too small to be kept in a cave ...

Jessica: I need to find a very, very small cave!

[English text unavailable]
COL-3056106

Jessica: Grrrrr ...

Jessica: sniffs It smells good as usual today!

Jessica: Let's see what food there is today ...

[English text unavailable]
COL-3056107

Librarian: ... Have you finished the book already?

Jessica: Yeah. There are so few pictures in it, so it didn't take long!

Librarian: ... I had no idea this was an ... illustrated book.

[English text unavailable]
COL-3056108

The sound of footsteps echoes clearly in the empty classroom.

Jessica: Hmm ... As I remember, this is a table ... and this is a chair!

Jessica: But why are they laid out like this?

Jessica: They don't look good at all this way ... Alright! Let me stack them on top of each other ...

[English text unavailable]
COL-3056109

Beep: CO-092146, Jessica.

Beep: Please recover your consciousness and be prepared to take up today's study.

Jessica: Yawns ... Hmm?

Instructor: Ms Jessica, today's first lesson will start shortly.

After a while in the classroom.

[English text unavailable]
COL-305611

Jessica: Jennifer, have you finished the script? You seem much better now.

Blonney: It's done! All finished! I have even found a sponsor -- who is not my dad!

Blonney: That is to say, he is actually interested in my story! I will be shooting a new movie soon!

Jessica: "Shooting a movie" like you did? Shall I get my friends back here?

Blonney: No, we are not doing that anymore. People don't use real monsters in real filming. We have a team for props.

Jessica: Oh ... fine.

Blonney: Don't worry about me. My dad is very proud of what I have achieved.

Blonney: He's finally more comfortable around his friends and their successful sons and daughters. Well, a movie director is not a great accomplishment, but it's still better than an ignoramus fooling around all day.

Blonney: So he has also chipped in quite a lot of money, which allowed me to hire us some pros for the props.

Jessica: The men you chose must be the best of their kinds.

Blonney: Haha, thanks for the approval. Anyway, everything has been going on so well. The next step is to cast some actors.

Jessica: You mean Jason and the others?

Blonney: No, of course not.

Blonney: They are just amateurs. You and I have created such an interesting story together, so this time ... I have to find some professionals to play the roles. It's going to be a big search, followed by many careful auditions!

Jessica: So you're looking for a new "girl protagonist"? That sounds nice. I'm happy as long as you are.

Blonney: What a nice and kind-hearted little deer you are. Who wouldn't like you? What that instructor said is purely awful.

Blonney: Promise me that you won't stress yourself out in here. The courses designed by the Foundation must be hard.

Blonney: Ah! Time is up, I gotta go. Till next time, Jessica.

Jessica: Are you leaving, Jennifer? We still have time ...

Blonney: Sorry for that. I have two auditions to go. I will come back to see you afterwards, okay?

Jessica: ...

Jessica: Okay, I'll be waiting for you.

Blonney: It won't take long, dear. I promise I will come to you once the auditions are over!

[English text unavailable]

COL-3056110

Beep: CO-092146, Jessica.

Beep: You have been distracted for over 30 seconds. Attention control failure detected. Please refocus on your studies.

Jessica: You annoying thing, still noisy as ever.

Jessica: Why can't you be like those little conchs with all kinds of patterns? They always speak softly, and have the most gentle and beautiful voices!

[English text unavailable]
COL-3056111

Beep: CO-092146, Jessica.

Beep: The entrance to the dormitory is closing in 10 minutes. Please be inside your room and ready to rest.

Jessica: Little trumpet, you said the exact same thing yesterday. Why don't you say something different?

[English text unavailable]
COL-3056112

Beep: CO-092146, Jessica.

Beep: The entrance of the dormitory is closing in 10 minutes. Please be inside your room and ready to rest.

Jessica: Good night, weird little speaker.

[English text unavailable]
COL-3056113

Jessica: Sleeping Mmm ...

Jessica: Abhaile ... dul abhaile ...

Jessica: !!!

Jessica: Oh, it was just a dream.

[English text unavailable]
COL-3056114

Instructor: We will be using the same set of questions you did before the enrollment: Societal Level Preliminary Test A-001 (revised ed.).

Instructor: Please take a serious attitude to the test, and provide answers to the questions I ask.

Instructor: Now, close your eyes. You will see a sheet of white light. Place your finger on the designated spot.

[English text unavailable]
COL-3056115

Instructor: I am very sorry, Ms. Jessica. The test results indicate that you have not met the socialization standards recognized by the Foundation.

Instructor: In other words, you failed the test.

Jessica: Oh, what does that mean? Did I lose this game?

Jessica: Like being caught in hide-and-seek, or like the awakened witch being stopped by the clever girl?

Instructor: It is clear that your knowledge and behavior are not up to par. We cannot let you graduate.

Jessica: Do I have to continue with this odd game, Ms. Instructor?

Jessica: Well, it might be monotonous and boring, and the stories you tell are always the same, but I'll keep playing.

Instructor: ... Looks like we still have a long way to go.

[English text unavailable]

COL-3056116

Instructor: Congratulations, Ms. Jessica, your final exam marks have met the graduation criteria.

Instructor: I am glad to see that you've gotten rid of your past bad habits and begun to walk the path of reason under the tutelage of our school.

Instructor: Here is your Certificate of Social Adaptation.

Jessica: It's gorgeous. Look at the shimmering gold color. I could make up a great story about it!

Instructor: ...

Blonney: Good! Jessica! You're a graduate now!

Jessica: Jennifer, you're here!

Blonney: Of course. It's your final exam day, so I gave the crew a vacation and came here early in the morning. Many others are also waiting for you.

Sonetto: That's awesome. Congratulations on passing the test, Ms. Jessica.

Jessica: Whoa! Everyone's come to see me!

Jessica: I have no idea what "graduation" is, but I like it. Can I graduate again?

Vertin: You'll have plenty more time to spend with people after this.

Vertin: I look forward to it. Outside the correctional school and beyond Green Lake, there are many games, many fresh ideas, and many stories to uncover. I'm looking forward to exploring the outside world with you.

Jessica: I sure would love to, Vertin! A world full of stories and unexpected surprises ... Let's go now!

Blonney: Hey, Jessica, wait! We forgot something important!

Blonney: It's your graduation. Graduation, of course, comes with uniforms, flowers, and, most importantly, a party! We've got to party and dance all night!

Blonney: I brought all the stuff. Here, put this on.

Jessica: Is this a costume? Like a white veil and a mask?

Blonney: No, this is different! It's a graduation uniform, symbolizing a new stage in your life. It has a lot of special meanings.

Blonney: But right now, it's you and only you that matter.

Blonney: Look at that camera over there. They've come to take your graduation pictures!

Everyone: Happy graduation!

A fun-filled adventure comes to a close.

The child born in the laboratory has gained a lot from it.

But there is still fun to be explored in this little corner of the world.

Don't worry, we will come back.

[English text unavailable]
COL-3056117

Jessica: Sonetto! I'm so happy to see you again!

Sonetto: Good day, Ms. Jessica... Oh! I'm very... Yes, thank you for the passionate welcome. Please ... you can let me go now, we are starting the lesson now.

Jessica: Did you bring another present? What's in this big sack?

In her curious gaze, the young teacher stands by the podium, holding a paper bag in her arms. She clears her throat, and tries to speak in a way that resembles a experienced teacher as much as possible.

Sonetto: Ahem... Before we start, I should emphasize again that this is a cognition class, which is different from other meetings we had in a more casual setting. Given your performance in our last lesson, I believe we should start with the basics.

Sonetto: Ms. Jessica, could you please tell me what this is?

Jessica: This?

Sonetto: Based on what happened last time, it seems that, in the process of recognizing a new object, you are more used to observing the object's color, shape, and temperature and associating them with the things you know.

Sonetto takes a banana out of the paper bag and leaves it on the table.

Sonetto: That's why I would assume that ... you might recognize this as something similar to the moon. However, we all know this is not the actual moon. We need to introduce you to some other ways to identify and categorize a new object, like...

[English text unavailable]
COL-3056118

Jessica: Huh? The moon?

Jessica: What is the moon?

Sonetto: Hmm? Jessica, you should know what the moon is. Just like the sun, it is in the sky ...

Jessica: But you are holding it right now. I thought I knew what the moon is, but now I'm confused ...

Sonetto: Um ... My apologies. I guess I should redo the lesson plan now ...

[English text unavailable]
COL-3056119

Jessica: What are you talking about, Sonetto? Of course it's not the moon.

Sonetto: Emm? This is promising, you seem to be a lot better than...

Jessica: It's a boomerang.

Sonetto: What? A boomer-... what?

Jessica: The serial killer's weapon in the stories. It curves at the midpoint of its body, looks like an "L," and it's yellow. The killer can throw it out to cut down the victim's head and it will fly back itself, while the head will become the killer's collection.

Sonetto: No, you have mistaken it! Ms. Jessica...

Jessica: But I don't get it. It's not sharp enough to cause any damage.

Sonetto: Be ... because it is just a banana ...? It's a plant and a fruit, the edible kind. It's never used for cut ... cutting people's heads off.

Jessica: It's edible?

Sonetto: Wait!

Jessica: Hmm... Banana, tastes funny...

Sonetto: Please stop! You have to peel it first! No, I mean ... please stop eating our teaching aids!

[English text unavailable]

COL-305612

Campus Security: You! Stop right there! We don't allow unauthorized personnel in here!

Blonney: Don't be a goose, just throw it in if you can't get in here!

Bodyguard: But ... Ms. Jennifer...

Blonney: Hurry up! Oh it would break, so what? How much would a TV cost?

Blonney: Phew... I'm here again! Though I'm a little late. There were more people at the audition than I expected.

Jessica: J-Jennifer, what's this?

Blonney: This? This is the latest television, you can watch it without cables and the antennae.

Blonney: The press said it was developed by Laplace Scientific Computing Center. Inspired by the rare Dalpobeast, it is the most advanced biomimicry and the most beautiful child of modern arcanum and science.

Blonney: Perhaps I'm a bit carried away, but it is indeed a good product.

Blonney: That's why I brought it here, along with these...

Blonney opens that gigantic alligator skin shoulder bag she carries. The bag, very much resembles an alligator, throw up a great pile of tapes from its wide-open mouth.

Jessica: What are ... these?

Blonney: These are the tapes of the auditions. Some people couldn't come to the audition in person, so they sent these tapes instead to give the job a shot. I have brought them all, let's watch them together.

Jessica: But this is your movie. Is it okay for me to watch them?

Blonney: These are the auditions for the girl protagonist, and aren't you ... the archetype of this character? Of course you are qualified to evaluate them.

As one of the tapes is inserted in the slot, a pretty girl appears on the screen.

Blonney: Good. Beautiful green eyes.

Jessica: Wow, her hair is as shiny and smooth as silk. I wish I could feel it with my own hands!

Blonney puts in another tape. Another girl, younger and more timid, shows up.

Jessica: I like her. Her voice is soft, just like a lark's chirping.

Blonney: But ... she's not enough. Something is ... missing.

Tapes, one after another, disappear in the TV and get spitted out again. Nothing shows up on the TV is satisfactory enough for the director.

Blonney: That's awful. No. 1's hair is not soft enough, No. 4's eyes are not green enough, No. 7's are too green. No. 9, not bad, but her wrists aren't delicate ...

Horropedia: Ah, fine. I'll accept this one. A villain who is also a fan of soda, kinda unique. That's gonna make our story more interesting.

Horropedia: Anyway, Rule No. 2 ...

Jessica: What's this?

Horropedia: Hey, hands off! It's my gun.

Jessica: What's a gun?

Horropedia: A gun is a sophisticated machine with a carefully designed structure. It's dangerous, which makes it a good weapon for villains.

Jessica: I AM the villain. Can I use it?

Horropedia: Thank goodness! I never thought you would realize what a villain should do at this point! Now take it but keep your finger off the trigger and listen to me carefully. Rule No. 2 is ...

Horropedia: Oh my! Stop drinking!! Gosh! It's completely empty!

Horropedia: Glug... Ahh! Nice!

Jessica: Glug ... Hah!

Horropedia: See, this gun doesn't use normal bullets, but special ones.

Jessica: Ahem, is it made with slime mold?

Horropedia: No no, no no no, slime mold can never work as well as it does.

Horropedia: It's made with the cobweb of a sand spider, which has excellent adhesion and endurance.

Jessica: What about this? It's greasy, and smells good!

Horropedia: Nuts, I stole them from the canteen. Go slow with them.

Horropedia: Let's continue. See, mix the two of them, and dry up the mixture ...

Horropedia: Wait till it gets a crust ...

Horropedia: Woo-hoo!

Horropedia: Perfect! It works so well!

Horropedia: It took me a really long time to invent this formula.

Jessica: Oh.

Horropedia: ...

Horropedia: Did we forget our purpose?

Jessica: What purpose?

Horropedia: Hmm, having no purpose is also a kind of purpose, huh? Nah, forget it.

Beep: Stu...student ... Je...Jessica...

The barely fixed speaker is still trying to fulfill its duty, making protesting noises at the rule-breaking duo.

Horropedia: Humph, damn. We're spotted. Run!

Horropedia: Since we have done nothing significant, we should try doing some. C'mon.

COL-305633

Horropedia: Alas ... I knew it.

Horropedia: It's okay. Maybe you can pass the final exam.

Horropedia: Cunning exam-oriented student, go take your way to Rome! I'll be waiting at Vertin's!

Matilda: You! What is wrong with you?!

Matilda: "Arcanists mostly harness their gnosis through Squirrel 3"?!

A piece of exam paper is almost scrunched up and disappears in Matilda's grip.

Matilda: How can you fail at such a simple question...

Jessica: Hmm? Anything wrong?

Jessica: Squirrel 3 is an outgoing boy. I'm sure it can always help with whatever I need.

Matilda: ...

Jessica: Matilda? Is something wrong with your stomach? You look pale.

Matilda: Urgh... Don't look at me like this with your puppy-dog eyes!

Matilda: Oh, we are so at a dead end... Introduction to Arcane Skills is nothing but a bound volume of chewable papers for you... Not to mention Ethics, oh, Ethics...

The book with indigo cover is suddenly opened rudely.

Matilda: Jessica, listen, what would you do if someone offered you help?

Jessica: Well ... I'll invite them to my cave and get them the softest bed!

Jessica: Then I'll shut the stone gate closed so they won't run away. If I still have time after that, I'll tie their hands and legs, but of course I'll be careful in case I break their bones ...

Matilda: No! It could have been simple! Just say thanks!

Matilda: I can't believe this... Then, what if, what if someone took something away from you?

Jessica: Hmm ... I'll just give it to them and invite them to my cave ...

Matilda: ...

Matilda: Why? Why on earth will you do that?!

Matilda: Why do you have to keep people in your cave?!

Jessica: Hmm? What's wrong about that?

Matilda: Sighs

Matilda: I can see it now. You are making fun of me.

Matilda: They told you to make fun of me, right?!

Jessica: Your voice is too loud, Matilda.
My smileless friend said you won't get the canteen's soup if you don't keep it down.

Jessica: Soup is a kind of delicious food. You must have never had it, huh? Shall I get you some later?

Jessica: Hmm? Do you have a fever, Matilda? Your face is blushing.

Jessica: Matilda?

Matilda: I, I...

Matilda: You can figure this all out by yourself! I'm out.

Jessica: ...?

Matilda: Aggrieved sobs She doesn't understand anything...

Matilda: Even if ... even if it has been clearly stated in her file that she has never been educated, and her mind is almost like a child's mind... She shouldn't have made fun of me! I'm done with her!

Her leather shoes stomp on the floor, absolutely and strongly, like the owner's determination.

Matilda: Perhaps I was a bit impulsive ... but I wasn't wrong! She is stupid enough to get herself into this ...

Matilda: Hmph, that stupid girl ... She's gonna be in great trouble without Ms. Bouanich's help!

Matilda: ...

Matilda: How forgiving I am! Putting away the grudges so quickly!

Matilda: This is ... not some apolog... She's the one who should apologize!

Jessica: Fabulous! You're here again! I thought you were not coming today.

Matilda: Ahem... I, I'm here to accept your apology.

Jessica: Apology?

Jessica: What is an apology?

Matilda: You! Hmph ... just say ... hmm...

Matilda: Just bow to me and say it out loud! "I'm sorry, please accept my apology and forgive me, gracious Ms. Bouanich"!

Eyes shut, face blushing, Matilda shouts out the words with considerable intensity.

Jessica: Hmm?

Jessica: Is this ... a game?

Matilda: Hmph, I knew you wouldn't do as I said. In this case, I can still show my tolerance...

Jessica: I-I'm sorry.

Matilda: ...!

Jessica: My bad. The graceful Ms. Bouanich. Forgive me.

Matilda: You!

Matilda: How come ... you won't be embarrassed...
This sounds more embarrassing than I thought...

Jessica: ...?
Did I say it wrong? It's "gracious Ms. Bouanich," right?

Matilda: Whoaaa!

Matilda: Sto...stop saying that!

Jessica: Hmm?

Jessica: You are weird. I said it right but you don't seem to be comfortable with it at all. Why?

Matilda: !!!

Matilda freezes, processing what she is looking at with great effort.

Matilda: You!

Matilda: Sonetto?! What are you doing here?

“Sonetto”: ...

Matilda: Wait, wait, wait!

Matilda: Sonetto, what...what are you going to do?

Matilda: It's too close.

“Sonetto”: Matilda.

Matilda: Yes, I am!

Matilda: No, why would I say that...

Matilda: Stop, don't get any closer!

Matilda: Whoaaa...!

“Sonetto”: Matilda, why are you so nervous today?

“Sonetto”: You mentioned her a lot...

“Sonetto”: So I thought you would be happy to see Sonetto.

Matilda: Emm... I... I...

“Sonetto”: But you don't seem happy.

“Sonetto”: Wow, your ears are so red. Are you ill?

Matilda: Stop making fun of me, Sonetto!

"Sonetto": Ah ...!

Jessica: Hmm ... She got even more weird today ...

Jessica: What's this?

The pile of books brought by Matilda has been kicked down and scattered around on the floor. In the ruins, a stack of paper shows itself.

Jessica: Matilda dropped it ...

Jessica: This place is nice, but it doesn't look like a place for dining.

In a bright, open hall, she sees tables and chairs lining up in perfect order, and in those silver platters on the tables, exquisite food keeps giving off great smell into the air.

Jessica: Anyway, I dine wherever there's food.

Jessica: What's this dark water with bubbles? Let me see ... coughing Whoa!

Jessica: I hate this. spits

Nevertheless, she manages to fill her tummy with what she can find. She won't have to wake up in the middle of the night out of hunger anymore.

Beep: CO-092146, Jessica.

A shabby canteen, filled with the smell of food.

Jessica: Hmm? There's new food today?

Jessica: Purple soup ... Hmm!

Jessica: It's surprisingly good! It tastes sour, sweet, bitter and hot at the same time! I've never had anything this good!

Jessica: Hmm ... Who made it?

Jessica: Book? What is a book? Is it one of those things with the colorful squares in them?

Librarian: I'm not quite sure what you're talking about ... Maybe you could take a look at these?

Librarian: We have Ms. Misery (The Illustrated Edition), and The Frog Prince. Which one do you prefer?

Jessica: This is weird ... Didn't find anyone in the books ...

Giant Critter: Chirr!!

Jessica: You are huge, furry friend ... Are you the one "who lives in the book"?

Jessica: But you don't look like a "man" at all. Can you change your appearance too?

Jessica: Hey, what are you ... No! The mirror's going to fall over!

That massive standing mirror is leaning towards her.

Jessica: The book says, when something is falling down, I should ...

Jessica: Right! Hold it up!

Matilda: Oh!

Matilda: Ohhh!

Matilda: This is my girl... Passing the exam with flying colors!

Matilda: Ha... Matilda can do everything perfectly, including teaching! This has better proven that I was just unlucky to lose 3 points to Sonetto in that exam back then!

She complacently pats on the red ticks on the exam paper.

Jessica: Back then?

Matilda: Oh, that was an exam on A Brief Introduction to Strategy. I got one multiple-choice question wrong...

Matilda: How did Sonetto manage to get full marks in every exam?

Matilda: I even prayed to that "Man in Books" in the library... Turns out it was just a scam!

Matilda: One boring, stupid mirror! "Pray, then you can pass the exam with full marks"—that kind of thing ... It was just a mirror filled with cheat sheets!

Matilda: Hmph. But I have also put my full marks exam paper into that dumb mirror...

Matilda: I'm a much better model than some random rumors!

Jessica: Oh, that's what happened!

Matilda: Now I know what happened the other day. Don't pull a prank on the instructor again! Understand?

Matilda: Ahem... Let's put that aside. Now it is time for us to see how well I ... YOU have been doing in class!

Matilda: This is the quiz I have prepared for you! The questions are all from Societal Level Preliminary Test A-001 (revised ed.), which means you will find the questions designed from different angles in here, and they could be challenging!

Jessica: Oh! I've seen these sentences before!

Matilda: Really?

Matilda: This is terrific! But of course you would memorize all these with the help from the great genius Matilda!

Matilda: I will give you 15 ... no, 45 minutes to finish all the questions! Let's find out what a great instructor I have been!

The notes coming from the flute are rough and harsh, and it is difficult to make a tune out of them. Then the pool of water on the ground churns, and a ghostly white figure leaps up through its surface.
