[English text unavailable]

Contents

[English text unavailable] 2
[English text unavailable] 2

[English text unavailable]

COL-402201

Foundation Staff Member: You are about to watch a series of videos demonstrating the operational procedures of our trial project, "Phototaxis in Study."

Foundation Staff Member: Please watch each video in its entirety to ensure your safety during the experiment.

Foundation Staff Member: First, confirm and remember your personal identity: You are a staff member of the Foundation, assigned to participate in these trials.

Foundation Staff Member: The lighting system in the experimentation room has been specifically designed to attract moths.

Foundation Staff Member: These moths are arcane creations, conjured by our staff to deliver vital intel.

Foundation Staff Member: Your role is to review each piece of intel and extract any valuable information.

Foundation Staff Member: During this process, you may experience disruptions to your sense of identity, including symptoms such as amnesia and dissociation.

Foundation Staff Member: Should you notice any of these symptoms, please leave the lab immediately and contact the medical team for a personality and identity assessment.

Foundation Staff Member: Always remember: You are a staff member of the Foundation, assigned to participate in these trials.

Foundation Staff Member: The first video is about to begin. Please pay close attention and review the content as many times as necessary to fully understand the operational procedures.

[English text unavailable]

COL-402202

Foundation Staff Member: All videos have been reviewed. You are now fully prepared to conduct the experiment.

Foundation Staff Member: Please keep your responsibilities in mind, and submit your intel reports in a timely manner.

Foundation Staff Member: Our team will check in regularly to collect your reports and ensure you remain fit to continue the experiment.

Foundation Staff Member: We wish you all the best.